About Christine: Christine Gordon Manley has been helping academics, researchers, educators, small business owners, and authors share their message with the world for over fifteen years. She has a long list of clients from around the world, and she is a published author herself with Breakwater Books, based in her original home of Newfoundland. Christine is a member of Editors Canada, the Writers' Alliance of Newfoundland and Labrador, the Canadian Freelancer Union, the Writers' Union of Canada, and the PEI Writers' Guild (of which she also sits on the Board of Directors as President). She's edited every type of writing imaginable. Christine's unique ability is to read a piece of writing through various lenses to connect the writer's message to what the reader needs to hear.
