

News, Events and Activities

In this issue:

- Survey from TLC and E-Learning Office
- Lunch & Learn Sessions
- Teaching Matters! Series
- Research Budgets for New(er) Faculty
- Resources to Support Remote Teaching and Learning

The Teaching & Learning Centre & the E-Learning Office are ready to help prepare for remote teaching. Take 1-2 minutes to complete this survey to let us know what you need to make the first weeks of the Winter 2022 semester a success.

Start the New Year off with a Lunch and Learn Session

- Join Stacey MacKinnon, Shannon Murray and Andrew Zinck as they share their experiences with Ungrading assignments and courses on January 21st at 12:30 pm. Location TBD.
- A Community of Practice on Enhancing the Mentorship Experiences of Graduate Students will begin in mid-January. For more info and to RSVP.

Save the Date

Teaching Matters! Series

- Dr. Yvonne Poitras Pratt and Dr. Patricia Danyluk, 2021 recipients of the Allan Blizzard Award, will be sharing their work around reconciliatory pedagogy on January 10th at 12:30. Click here for details and to register for their session entitled Exploring Reconciliatory Pedagogy and Its Possibilities through Educator-led Praxis. Post-secondary colleagues from Atlantic Canada have been invited to join us for this virtual event.
- Dr. George Veletsianos, CRC in Innovative Learning and Technology and the Commonwealth of Learning Chair in Flexible Learning will be joining us for a talk on January 27th entitled Finding a future beyond “a return to normal” on campus. Details and link to RSVP coming soon.
- Three of UPEI's 3M National Teaching Fellows will be leading a panel and discussion on Lessons Learned from the Pandemic on February 10th, 2022.

Working on your syllabus?

Assessments in Remote Classes

has helpful reminders to think about balancing learning, feedback, and workload. A useful refresher!

Research Budgets for New(er) Faculty

For colleagues getting new research projects off the ground, Maria Steele, Manager - Research Services, and Deidre Smith, Manager - Financial Services will address frequently asked questions around budgeting for research projects on Friday January 14th at 2:00pm. A minimum of 10 participants is needed, so RSVP now. Register for the session by Jan. 12th, 2022.

Looking for inspiration for your first weeks of online teaching? Our Teaching Online website has links to lots of resources. Additional resources that are close at hand are Faculty & Staff Moodle Support and individual courses in the Academic Instructional Skills Program

Photo by Anthony Shkraba from Pexels